

I urge you to continue the FCC cross-ownership ban which was enacted to preserve a modicum of integrity within the communication industry. How can a free people be truly free when one point of view monopolizes all forms of generally available information? That seems to be the trend; to have fewer and fewer sources provide more and more of our daily information. The goal should be to provide the great diversity of sources needed to guarantee an informed peoples.